

Tobun Dorbin Ng is a Systems Scientist in School of Computer Science at Carnegie Mellon University. He earned the MS and PhD degrees in management information systems from the University of Arizona in 1993 and 2000, respectively. He also received his BS in business administration majoring in management information systems and finance from the University of Arizona in 1990. His research interests include digital libraries, intelligent and multimedia information retrieval, semantic extraction and context analysis, semantic interoperability for human computer interaction and information analysis, large-scale knowledge discovery using high performance supercomputers, knowledge management, web-based search engine and user interface development, neural-network computing and collaborative computing.