Brain image analysis group

our group uses machine learning and brain imaging to decode cognitive states and understand how language is represented.

in some tasks humans still perform better than computers. Can we use our knowledge of the brain to build better algorithms?