Robust Parsing Seminar

Spring-1999

Wrap-up Discussion

Discussion Questions

- What do you think was the single most important contribution to the problem of robust parsing that we talked about in class this semester?
- What is the most important question left to be answered?
- What are some interesting experiments that could be run to build upon what we have learned from the papers we read this semester?
- What are the most difficult language phenomina from the perspective of robust interpretation? Are there some types of sentences we will never be able to handle well?
- Has this seminar contributed to your own research work? If so, in what ways?
- Comments and Suggestions...
- Robust Parsing Reading Group?
