

We are excited to announce that the CareerEco page hosting Carnegie Mellon University's virtual career fair this fall is now open for student registration! The virtual fair will take place on September 14-16th from 1pm EST - 9pm EST. Registration for the fair is divided into three days - the days are not specific to each major as done by the TOC in the past. However, different companies will be attending each day, so make sure to register for each day!

Registration Links:

Make sure to register with your CMU Andrew email!

- Day 1
- Day 2
- Day 3
- Here's information on how to get started with CareerEco.
- For a tutorial on how to use CareerEco, click here. We will also be hosting a webinar on September 9th from 4 – 5 p.m. so you can see what the platform will look like and how it will function on the days of the fair. You can register to attend here.
- When you create your account, make sure to upload the most recent version of your resume. Uploading resumes into the virtual platform in advance gives employers more time to review your qualifications, which gives you more of an opportunity to stand out.
- For students on the Pittsburgh campus, the Career and Professional Development Center is available to help you create and perfect your resume - make an appointment with your career counselor, attend CPDC resume events, and review the CPDC's online resources, including Career Launch on Canvas.
- For students on the Silicon Valley campus, the career services team within Student Affairs is available to help you create and perfect your resume – make an appointment with your career consultant via Handshake, attend Silicon Valley resume workshops, and access helpful resources via Canvas.

Helpful Links:

- Preparing for a career fair
- Writing a resume or cover letter
- Using VMock
- Career Launch

For continually updated information regarding the upcoming career fair, make sure to join the TOC Facebook group and follow the TOC Instagram (@cmu\_toc). Don't forget to mark the virtual fall career fair on your calendars!

We are excited about this fall's recruiting and look forward to your participation!