Professor Dave Eckhardt will discuss The Master of Science in Computer Science Program

The Master of Science Program in Computer Science offers students with a Bachelor's degree the opportunity to improve their training with advanced study in Computer Science. We cater to students with basic analytic skills and a strong aptitude for mathematics, programming and logical reasoning.

Professor Peter Steenkiste will discuss The 5th Year Master of Science Program

The Fifth Year Masters Program is a direct Masters Program for students receiving a Bachelor of Computer Science degree from Carnegie Mellon. The purpose and goal of the program is to encourage our very brightest undergraduates to become involved with research that broaden their undergraduate experience.
