

NSA Is Coming to...

Carnegie Mellon

NSA Codebreaker Challenge

Wednesday, September 30th, 2015

Newell-Simon, Room 3305

1:00 PM

MORE INFORMATION...

NSA has launched the 3rd annual Codebreaker Challenge this Fall in a competition to see which university can be the first to solve the challenge and which can have the most solutions submitted. This will provide an excellent hands-on opportunity to develop reverse-engineering / low-level code analysis skills while working on a realistic problem set.

Join us for this tech talk as we introduce the challenge, present some reverse engineering techniques, and answer any questions that you might have about the challenge. We look forward to seeing you there.

For more information visit: <https://codebreaker.ltsnet.net/>

Search NSA to Download

NSA
www.NSA.gov/Careers

APPLY TODAY