“Winnie”, as he's called by his friends, is a very talented pianist and computer scientist. He is really interested in the intersection of music and computer science and has created his own application that lets you play piano on your computer. That's why he is taking this course.

😊 He's also a gaming, hip hop, and breakdancing hobbyist. He used to play videogames 18 hours a day. Quit that for breakdancing and now teaches it to newcomers! He likes helping people with their challenges, so feel free to DM him for help! 😊

He didn't get into breakdancing until he was in college. One of the great things about this dance style is how inclusive it is – if you're willing to put the time in, you can learn a lot at any age, and everyone is friendly and cool.
